LOCAL ITEMS OF INTEREST

THE WEATHER.

Forecast.

Washington, Dec. 21.—New Mexico: Snow in north and east, fair in south-west portion, Friday; Saturday fair. Arizona: Generally fair, Friday and Saturday.

Attorney Ellsworth Ingalls has returned from an important trip to Las Cruces on legal business.

J. W. Masters, of the McBrien Furniture company, will leave in a few days for the east, where he goes for the purpose of purchasing a new stock of household goods for his company. The company reports an immense holiday business.

George E. Murphy, a healthseeker from Milwaukee, died early yesterday morning at his room in the Highlands of consumption. The body is being held by O. W. Strong's Sons pending advice from relatives. Deceased was 40 years of age.

Bert Bryant, the affable employee at William Farr's meat market on South Second street, is rejoicing over the advent of a son and heir who arrived at the family home on North Second street yesterday. Mr. Bryant has been doing honor to the little fellow's arrival.

Jesus Armijo, who thoughtlessly smashed in the door of a neighbor's house Wednesday night, while seeking to find his way to his own bed, was yesterday allowed to serve fifteen days on the street in default of a fifteen-dollar fine which Judge Crawford deemed just.

There will be great times tonight in Elksdom. That royal prince of entertainers, Frederick Warde, will preside at a social session of the Elks tonight at 10 p. m., immediately after his recital in the opera house. There is no more enthusiastic Elks than Warde. He loves the order and has devoted time and talent to its development. He delivered the memorial address before the lodge at Cheyenne, Wyo., this year. The Elks will bring their ladies tonight and all Elks now in the city who are not members of the local lodge are cordially invited, with their ladies.

A full delegation of Elks will meet the flyer from the east to welcome Frederick Warde to this city. It is a rare privilege to have an actor of such attainments visit Albuquerque. Warde has established a national reputation not only as a vocal Elks, but an entertainer of rare power, but as a tragedian who has no superior now before the footlights. Warde wants to establish a national theatre where plays of merit can be produced by actors of renown and where native playwrights may be encouraged and in time American tragedies can be placed upon the boards.

Mrs. J. H. Williams, accompanied by her little son, left last night for Wareham, Mass., with the body of her husband who died in this city on Wednesday night at their home on Mountain road. Mr. Williams, who was forty years of age, came to this city two months ago from New York City, suffering from weak lungs and for a time seemed to improve. He brought his wife and one child out and had decided to remain here. On Wednesday evening he was taken with severe hemorrhages and died during the night. He left quite a sum of money in the banks and his niece, a teacher at the Albuquerque Indian school will be appointed administratrix.

of the estate. Mr. Williams was quite well and favorably known in this city.
